Though I am most apologetic for the long delay on  I am admonished by our people who made the check that the process of scrutinizing a  is a long and agonizing one. The conclusion, as you might have suspected is a negative one. While  efforts are worthy and while there is no derogatory information on file, we do not believe he can be effective enough among Russian emigres  to warrant financial support. Disapproval is likewise predicated upon several additional factors in the making but I'm sure you will recognize that security prevents me from divulging anything more.
